Dagr, eldest son of Winn and Maggie, is the responsible son, while his brother Malcolm is the sulky, perpetual malcontent. When Malcolm uses his bloodstone to travel 200 year back in time, Dagr is pulled back with him. When Dagr falls for a woman who turns out to be betrothed to Malcolm, problems ensue.

Don't read. Too short. Next books are never ready when you need/ want them. Not like the Time walker series at all..More like EB Brown ran out of how tell the next story and just wanted to throw something out there while trying to figure out how to tell a better story later.

Again I have fallen in love with Winn & Maggie even though this book is about Dagr and Skye journey. The simple ways of the First People amaze me as EB Brown writes them. The Englishman were harsh as even our history books has taught our children. Transporting the reader from place to place is a gift and EB Brown has that gift in spades. Please read the entire Pretenders series, and continue on with her other series as you will enjoy them as much as I have. I received this book for free from the author for this honest review. And I am so glad that I did. I cannot wait for her to write more.

The Ninth Key is the exciting conclusion to The Pretenders Series by E.B. Brown. All of our favorite characters return as Skye, Dagr, and Malcolm try to find their place in time and in their family. I loved this emotional and heart-pounding tale of love, loss, fear, and regret. If you haven't read the previous books in this series, you'll need to read them first, or you'll be lost. I received this book as an ARC for free to review; I would have given the book the same rating even if I hadn't gotten it for free, however!
